

Dr. Nick Wattie - Ontario Tech University

Dr. Nick Wattie is an Associate Professor and head of the Expertise & Skill Acquisition Lab in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Ontario Tech University. His research explores how different constraints influence talent identification and development, athlete performance, and expertise development. His research program also focuses on testing applied skill acquisition principles with the aim of optimizing learning environments.